ABOUT THE PAPER PRESENTATION COMPETITION

Unprecedented developments in technology and science are creating new societal challenges, appearing in a climate of rising mistrust in science and technology. Lack of scientific understanding is a leading factor for this increasing mistrust. Science is known to outreach the immigrant communities, students and patients. The important issue to be addressed with regard to science education curriculum in the current scenario is to promote and maintain the quality of life through sustainable living and the use of natural resources at a rate that maintains and enhances the resilience of ecosystems and the benefits they provide. This event hopes to stimulate interdisciplinary collaboration for science outreach as a part of scientific ethics and social responsibilities in order to empower the society.
